

Moscow's Troika card comes to one more Russian region

04.14.2021, Moscow

Moscow's ticketing system is being tested on two public transport routes of the city of Perm (more than 1 million residents). As soon as the tests prove to be successful, Troika card will be available in the city as well as in the whole Perm Region (2.5 million residents).

Perm Region and SberTroika (joint venture of Sber, Moscow Government and Moscow Region Government) signed the agreement on adopting Troika card in December 2020.

We are uniting the regions, and Perm has become part of a single ticketing system. Where the Troika card is already working, positive effects are visible: for passengers, it is, first of all, a convenient and reasonable way to pay for travel, and for the region — the development of non-cash payment in transport, increase in the transparency of the system and the growth of income accounting, – says Maxim Liksutov, Deputy Mayor of Moscow for Transport.

Troika card has been expanding its presence in the Russian regions since November 2020, when it was adopted in the Tula Region. Passengers can also pay with their Troika cards in Moscow Region, Komsomolsk-on-Amur and Ulyanovsk. In total, more than 25 regions expressed interest in Moscow's ticket system.
